

EPISODE: 339

TITLE: Are You Too Busy For Discipleship?

Are you too busy for discipleship? If you are honest, you may not be happy with your answer. Fear not! You'll get some help to get started, or re-started, regardless of where you're at today.

Here are 3 things to believe and consider about your schedule and disciple-making...

1. Discipleship is meant to be an all-of-life activity—a lifestyle. And without intentional effort to both be discipled and to live with and disciple others, there is no way to really make mature disciples that look more and more like Jesus. The discipleship model that Jesus practiced with his disciples is the same one he calls us to today: Life on life, life in community, and life on mission. And God has designed this world for you to be able to live that way today too.
2. God loves you just where you're at, but our loving Father did not send his son Jesus just to get us into heaven; he came that we might have a full life, an adventure with him of being his disciple and making more disciples... Starting first with our own family, our own church, and then moving outwards to include many others. Let the gospel change your schedule and priorities so that you can more fully live the life Jesus died to give us!
3. Be humble enough to start where you're at and begin again where needed. Get the training and encouragement you need to get started with new discipleship rhythms for yourself and with others. It is far too easy to hear a talk like this and give mental assent to things... nodding in agreement with good intentions but never really get started with new, meaningful practices. Now is the time to get (re)started!

During this INFO & ACTION-PACKED 4 Days, I'll walk you through exactly how we do Everyday Discipleship... This is how the Church is embracing the new normal!

Register Now - FREE: EverydayDisciple.com/challenge

Thanks for listening... I'll see you in the next episode!

Caesar

Be sure to subscribe, rate, and review the podcast on iTunes ☺

EVERYDAYDISCIPLE.COM