TITLE: Are You Believing What God Says About You?

As Christians, we most often use the word “belief” in connection to our faith and the Bible, but we also have beliefs that shape our lives connected to pretty much every action or inaction in life. Sometimes these beliefs can limit our potential.

Here are three things to believe and consider about our limiting beliefs about discipleship...

- 1. We don't live beyond what we believe about ourselves. If we've been buried under years of lies and untrue beliefs about who God has created us uniquely to be, know and live out of, the truth will actually all sound like lies, unbelievable and too good to be true.
- 2. It's alright that it's hard to believe the new and better story that God is telling about you. Don't expect to have a perfect “voice” at first. Speak what you are now hearing from God and expect it to take some time to gain and give clarity. It's okay... God loves you and wants to hear from you...and the rest of us need your voice!
- 3. Your voice is your identity out loud. Don't fear to try out your wings and try new things. Say new things, go to new places. If you believe that God is calling you to a new place, go there. If to a new role or job, try that. If to a new calling, embrace it fully knowing that God goes with you and is in fact already there.
