TITLE: How Your Small Groups Need To Change

Could your church experience new life and explosive growth through re-envisioning why and how your small groups gather together on mission?

Here are three key things to believe and consider about upgrading your church's small group...

- 1. The fastest growth in Church history is happening right now through multiplying small groups. God has given us a great opportunity to reboot our family and church rhythms here in the West for his glory, too. Your own small group gives you a perfect framework for easy, natural growth and multiplication regardless of the age and stage of life, financial resources or government restrictions. If you don't have a small group yet, get started today and learn to walk in the ways that Jesus walked with the type of people he hung out with.
- 2. God's love for you, your church, and your community does not stop there! He has brought you together as his family so that more and more of his lost children will find freedom in Christ and live life to the full, today, with you. Plus, your own spiritual formation and maturity will never happen in a "holy huddle" that is primarily inward focused. If you want to get to know the heart of God and his son Jesus better, dive deeper into living the life he lived with others.
- 3. Don't be content with a mundane, boring, group-focused existence based on convenience. You really can start to shift your small group to have a more outward, missional focus that includes not-yet believers and new People of Peace. Start getting equipped with those in your group that are interested in learning and growth—which may not be everyone! That's ok. Start going through the Tangible Kingdom Primer together with those that are open to change and have a love for the "not-yets" in your lives.
